Dr Nick Rose,
Executive Director
Sustain: The Australian Food Network

Dear Dr Rose,

3000acres are pleased to add our support to the Urban and Regional Food Declaration. We share Sustain: The Australian Food Network's passion and commitment to a just food system that prioritises health and sustainability.

3000acres aims to build healthy, resilient communities through urban agriculture. Our projects span community garden co-designs to celebrations of local food and harvesting events. We hope to improve urban environments by making food growing, producing and sharing a normalised experience in those spaces.

We share your vision for an equitable food system, and the collaborative and integrated work that needs to happen for us to get there. The Urban and Regional Food Declaration offers a clear and progressive vision for what Australia's food system could look like, and we can't wait to work together with Sustain: The Australian Food Network towards that future.

Warm regards,

Morgan Koegel
