Dear Dr Rose,

Cultivating Community are pleased to support the Urban and Regional Food Declaration and its purpose in achieving a collaborative and integrated approach to improving our food system.

Cultivating Community works with diverse and low-income communities to create fair, secure and resilient food systems with activities spanning food systems advocacy and support, urban agriculture, community food centres, school food gardens, food waste management and environmental education.

We have a vision for an equitable food system that sustains the health and diversity of our communities and our environment and see the Urban and Regional Food Declaration as an important step to achieving this.

Kind regards,

Karen White
